DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's amendments and accompanying remarks filed 9/23/02 have been entered and carefully considered. Applicant's amendment is found to overcome the claim objections previously set forth. Despite this advance, the amendments are not found to patentably distinguish the claims over the prior art and Applicant's arguments are not found persuasive of patentability for reasons set forth herein below.

Election/Restrictions

2. Newly submitted claims 32-39 are directed to an invention that is independent or distinct from the invention originally claimed for the following reasons: Claims 32-39 are drawn to a method.

Since applicant has received an action on the merits for the originally presented invention, this invention has been constructively elected by original presentation for prosecution on the merits. Accordingly, claims 32-39 are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a non-elected invention. See 37 CFR 1.142(b) and MPEP § 821.03.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

4. Claims 26-31 and 40-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Meeks (5830092) in view of Zocher (3340586).

Applicant has canceled all the previous claims and added new claims. These new claims are substantially similar to the previous claims such that the reasoning and appropriate citations to the prior art remain valid.

Applicant argues that Meeks teaches away from the instant invention because Meeks requires differential levels of wool in different layers. The examiner fails to see how this fact teaches away from the use of needling. Especially since Meeks specifically states that its invention is needled (col. 1, lines 29-30 and col. 2, lines 15-20). The examiner notes that Meeks' differential wool requirement is maintained by needling each layer separately.

Applicant argues that the examiner's motivation to combine is not the problem faced by Meeks. The examiner reminds applicant that if it is obvious to combine reference for one reason it is obvious to combine references for all reasons. The test for combining references is what the combination of disclosures taken as a whole would suggest to one of ordinary skill in the art. In re McLaughlin, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971). There is no requirement that a motivation to make the modification be expressly articulated. References are evaluated by what they suggest to one versed in the art, rather than by their specific disclosures. In re Bozek, 163 USPQ 545 (CCPA) 1969. The motivation, suggestion nor teaching may come explicitly from the statements in the prior art, the knowledge of one of ordinary skill in the art, or, in some cases the nature of the problem to be solved. See Dembiczak, 175 F.3d at 999, 50 USPQ2d at 1617. In addition, the teaching, motivation or suggestion may be implicit from the prior art as a whole, rather than expressly stated in the references. See WMS Gaming, Inc. v. International Game Tech., 184 F.3d 1339, 1355, 51 USPQ2d 1385, 1397 (Fed. Cir. 1999).

Applicant argues that needling in transverse directions achieves unexpected results. Among these unexpected results applicant's includes wear. Applicant also argues that "the tennis balls of the invention maintained good playing characteristics for a substantially longer period of time than convention needle point balls," i.e. they were more durable. Decreased wear and increased durability can hardly be referred to as unexpected, especially when Zocher specifically teaches the needling process to provide increased strength and cohesion. Moreover, applicant's declaration cannot be considered experimental evidence because it is merely the opinions of four tennis players. The instant invention was not tested or measured by any scientific means (at least there is no evidence of such proffered). Applicant's declaration is merely the subjective opinion of four people who played with the balls.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
